VARIETY OF ACTIVITIES FEATURE FEBRUARY MEETING OF PLANO 4-H

PLANO — A judging event high-lighted Plano 4-H club's February meeting, held in Vandalia school's multi-purpose room. Under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Buckley, members were taught how to use judging books and told what to look for in judging various entries.

Categories being judged were:

Leathercraft, photography, citrus, food preservation, and foods and nutrition (place settings). First place winner was Anna Poteet, with Steven Knapp, second.

Mrs. Sylvia Corkins announced February dates for the Flag Corps members. They will perform for the Baptist Church's Sweetheart Banquet February 14. On February 17 they will go to the Zion Lutheran School in Terra Bella; and they will be a part of the PTA Founder's Day program February 19.

Mrs. Corkins also asked everyone taking a lamb project to see her, as it is time to get lambs for the fairs.

Rodney Homer discussed the July trip to Philadelphia, and passed out itineraries to people who had been unable to attend the general meeting on January 30.

Homer told members of the Flag Corps that they could use their participation in the flag group as either a public speaking project or a Bicentennial project in their 4-H books. He offered to help any member with their demonstration.

Nancy Knapp, community leader, expressed her appreciation to the people who served as judges for Plano's demonstration day: Sylvia Corkins, Jeff Scheer, Marietta Homer, John Corkins, Katherine Homer, Becky Guerrero, Rodney Homer and Mildred Traylor. Entries for County Demonstration day are due February 13. It will be held at Monache High School February 28 at 9:30 a.m.

Mrs. Knapp said that members attending the Tulare County Farm Equipment show February 10-12 should record it in their books as an "Event Attended." She also announced that clothing project members will be participating in the Dress Review, March 20, with entries due March 1.

The meeting was conducted by President Tim Buckley. Donald Land and John Buckley led the salute to the flag. The 4-H pledge was led by Sheri Golden and Mary Bowker. After songs, Pam Bowker called the roll. Steve Knapp gave the treasurer's report and read the minutes of the last meeting.

Jay Faure reported that he, Steve Knapp, Harold Kempfer, and Walter Doyel worked cleaning up the fairgrounds on January 10.

Jamie Wilson reported on Plano's Demonstration day.

Katherine Homer reported that the Hi 4-H was having a Skating Party in Visalia February 17 to introduce eighth graders into Hi 4-H. She said all Hi 4-H members would be bringing pies for the Farm Equipment show. She asked all members interested in collecting for the Heart Fund to sign up after the meeting.

Project reports were given Glenda Carmen, Jay Faure, Jeff Faure, Marta Knapp, Steven Knapp, Abel Longoria, Ernie Longoria, Rolando Longoria, Teri Luther, Lisa May and Lori May.

The meeting was followed by a valentine party. Refreshment chairmen were Mark Michaelis and Randy Edwards. Their committee included Gaylene Peters, Roy Honeyman, Donald Land and David Land.

Moratorium Extended On Lion Hunting

SACRAMENTO — The Department of Fish and Game recommended to the State Legislature this week that the moratorium on sport hunting of mountain lions be extended for another year while the DFG finalizes a management plan for the cougar.

Also recommended in the department's report on its four-and-a-half-year study of the lion in California are retention of Fish and Game Code sections permitting the killing of depredating lions under a permit system and the pursuit of lions without taking or injuring them.

The legislature established the moratorium in 1971 and directed the DFG to study lion populations to "ascertain the quantity of mountain lions in the state and to determine the best methods of providing sound management of this resource."

The initial phase of the study consisted of field investigations and interviews with lion hunters, houndsmen, ranchers and others with specialized knowledge, together with gathering data on lion numbers, population trends, hunter success figures, information on hunter methods and natural history.

Field work included the capture, tagging, collaring and release of several lions.

After the statewide survey was completed three years ago, the DFG tentatively estimated the state's cougar population at approximately 2,400 animals.

A second phase of the study was conducted over 175 square miles of coast range in Monterey County to determine as precisely as possible the total mountain lion population and the animal's range requirements.

This was accomplished by capturing and fitting a total of 14 lions with radio transmitter collars that could be monitored so that the animals' movements could be followed.

On the basis of its study, the DFG states it is "apparent that the status of the mountain lion is good and that they are not threatened with extinction."

County Growers Reelected To Sunkist Board

SHERMAN OAKS — John V. Newman, of Ventura, has begun his fifth one-year term as chairman of the board of Sunkist Growers, Inc. after his re-election at organizational meeting of the Sunkist board of directors following the 82nd annual meeting of the citrus marketing organization January 27 at the Beverly Wilshire hotel.

The three incumbent vice-chairmen were also re-elected: Arthur W. Bodine, Phoenix; Jack M. Dungan, Exeter; and Robert A. Hardison, Santa Paula.

Twenty-six directors were elected to the Sunkist board at the annual meeting attended by some 800 citrus growers from California and Arizona, including: W.C. Orr, Lindsay, who replaced Ralph R. Tyrrell as representative of Tulare Kern Citrus Exchange; Robert W. Bennett, Porterville; Luis Caratan, Delano; Harvey S. Chase, Orange Cove; David I. Kline, Visalia; and Jess E. Swift, Visalia.

The board also took action at the annual meeting to amend a by-law which sets the authorized number of Sunkist directors that will serve during a given year. Under the amended by-law, no fewer than 25 and no more than 28 directors can be elected.

Directors of Sunkist Growers, Inc. are nominated by the district exchanges located in California and Arizona citrus producing areas and affiliated with Sunkist Growers, Inc.

The cooperatively organized district exchanges serve as regional selling and administrative units for Sunkist Growers, Inc., headquartered in Sherman Oaks. In fiscal 1974-75, Sunkist's sales were $483 million.

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Leland H. Ruth
Ex. Vice Pres.
Agricultural Council Of California

REGULATORY OVERKILL

"In the agricultural sector there is mounting evidence and agreement that government regulating activities are, in many cases, in conflict with the interests of both the consumer and the farmer." This is the observation of James B. Kendrick, Jr., Vice President of Agricultural Sciences and Director of the Agriculture Experiment Station for the University of California. His opinion appeared in a recent issue of California Agriculture.

Kendrick contends that today's farmers are faced with a real dilemma. "Complying with existing and proposed regulations requires significant new capital investments which may prove to be inadequate before the dust settles around all the regulations," he says. "It seems obvious that food costs must eventually increase to compensate for the rising cost of developing a perfect society."

WHO WILL PAY?

The point is that someone must pay for the increasingly large burden of government regulations the farmer now shoulders. That someone is without question the American taxpayer and food consumer. Each time a new law is passed to further regulate farmers, the public pays for such legislation in the form of higher taxes and higher food bills. It simply adds to the cost and to the difficulties of producing food and fiber. Kendrick feels that the problem is one of reconciling conflicting needs and objectives. "When a change begins to affect adversely the interests and objectives of other sectors of society, it is time to look at the benefits and price tags."

As an example, Kendrick cites the Environmental Protection Agency as the type of governmental objective that few take issue with. "But, when seemingly inflexible application of EPA regulations are combined with often conflicting and overlapping demands by numerous additional agencies in matters of public health, water quality, air pollution, pesticides, taxes, zoning and labor standards, the farmer finds himself in an impossible situation."

COMMON SENSE

"I am not suggesting that it is a time for 'benign neglect' and abandonment of standards and regulations," observes Kendrick. "I am suggesting that in our haste to legislate we have achieved regulatory overkill and that it is time for a hard look at the economic and social consequences."

Many California growers agree with Jim Kendrick that it is time for a little common sense when it comes to government regulation.

AG. LEADERSHIP ASSOCIATES ELECT HESTER PRESIDENT

SACRAMENTO — Adin A. At their 1st Annual meeting ALA members chose Hester, 36, to succeed Jerry Diefenderfer of Sacramento as president. Other officers include: Orchardist Dean Buchinger, Irvine, vice president; Cotton Marketeer Gene Lundquist, Bakersfield, secretary; and Fruit Grower H.A. "Gus" Collin, Orange Cove, treasurer.

The new board has scheduled its first business session for February 14 in Sacramento.

FARM POPULATION DECLINE SLOWER DURING 1974 YEAR

WASHINGTON — The U.S. farm population declined 1.2 percent a year from 1970 to 1974 and stood at about 9.3 million people in 1974, according to the most recent U.S. department of agriculture report.

This decline, notes the Economic Research service, is in contrast with the 4.8 percent annual decreases of the 1960's. Losses of farm population continue in the South, North Central, and Northeast regions of the country while the West shows an increase.

During 1970-74, the net loss to the farm population through people migrating from farms, or from reclassification of their residence from farm to nonfarm, averaged 143,000 annually.

Both the volume and rate of net outmigration were lower than for any other four-year period in the past 40 years.

Copies of "Farm Population Estimates for 1974," AER-319, are available by phoning (202) 447-7255 or by writing ERS Publications, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Such a lovely rain for thirsty California, and now that the smog has been washed away, we can see the most beautiful mountains in the whole world. One day I was sitting at my desk during recess and a very excited second grader rushed into the room and screamed at me to come quickly out on the playground. I jumped up and rushed out, thinking all kinds of awful things. I was half way across the play ground when my little student grabbed my hand and said, "Look Mrs. Loyd, aren't the mountains beautiful?" The mountains were just breathtaking. The green hills in front of the blue mountains with snow against the lighter blue of the sky. No wonder my artistic little Indian student could appreciate all that beauty. We really live in a beautiful part of OUR WORLD (when the smog has drifted away).

Happiness is the JOHNSON FAMILY of Three Rivers.

EDUCATIONAL TV FUND DRIVE IS NOW UNDERWAY

VISALIA — Tulare County board of supervisors has declared February as Educational Television month and in a resolution urged citizens of the area to support the current fund-raising campaign to get Channel 18 on the air by September.

A Federal grant of over $50,000 has been made available to the citizens of the central San Joaquin valley to activate an educational or "public" television station, provided Kings, Madera, Tulare and Fresno counties raise $250,000 in matching funds. Tulare county has a goal of $67,500.

KMFT, Channel 18, named after the four participating counties, would provide educational, informational and cultural offerings to over 800,000 individuals in the four county area.

Ray Schlick, of Visalia, is Tulare County chairman of the fund-drive. Schlick says individuals who are not contacted may send their tax deductible contributions to: ETV, Channel 18, P.O. Box 462, Fresno, CA. 93709.

Asparagus harvest is getting underway in Imperial valley and Orange county.

COTTON SEED PRICE REDUCED; MILLION-ACRE PLANTING SEEN FOR THE SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

BAKERSFIELD — A price of $303 per ton, fuzzy basis, for cotton seed for 1976 planting has been set by the board of directors of the California Planting Cotton Seed

COMMUNITY PRIDE
PROJECT COMPLETED

SPRINGVILLE — Recent Community Pride project by members of the Golden Hills 4-H club included sweeping the tennis court at the Springville Community park, replacing a dying tree, and collecting and smashing cans.

distributors (CPCSD). The non-profit grower organization is responsible for reproducing and distributing all planting seed in the San Joaquin valley one-variety district.

The price includes $33.85 per ton allocated for cotton production research projects conducted by University of California and U.S. department of agriculture personnel. With estimated seed sales of 13,000 tons, the total figure for research grants would be $440,000, about the same as last year.

The seed sales projections are based on an expected 20% increase in cotton acreage in the valley this year, to a total of approximately one million acres.

Committee members report that improved prices for cotton have stimulated interest in growing more cotton. Cutbacks in contracted acreage for canning tomatoes and sugar beets will divert some land to cotton. Also, overwintering grain crops hit by drought conditions will be plowed up and planted to cotton in some cases.

On the other hand, some land originally intended for cotton may be planted to alfalfa hay instead because of the extreme shortages and high prices now existing in California and neighboring states.

Tom Cherry, CPCSD manager, said he anticipates an increased demand this year for Acala SJ-4 seed. Used for the first time in 1975, this strain resulted in an average 25% yield increases in heavy wilt areas of the valley.

Enough SJ-4 seed will be available this season to plant about 450,000 acres, Cherry said. The remaining acreage will be planted to Acala SJ-2, the designated cotton variety for the portions of the valley without a significant wilt problem.

In its reproduction seed program, CPCSD will increase

SJ-2 and SJ-4 in equal amounts so that in 1977 two-thirds of the valley could be planted to either strain, depending upon grower performance based on this season's results.

A total of 35,100 acres will be used by CPCSD this season to increase the pure seed strains for 1977 planting. Contracts will be signed with the seed growers in the next few weeks.

Weather has been ideal for spring lambing and calving but very bad for cattle because of high feed costs and lack of rangeland grass.

BROKEN FENCES CONCERN OF HIGHWAY PATROL

POTERVILLE — One of the unsung duties of Highway Patrol officers is looking for broken fences where cattle and other livestock can wander out on a highway.

Lieutenant Jack Thompson of the Porterville Area office of the California Highway Patrol said, "We are interested in preventing accidents, but we also hope to assist farmers and ranchers by advising them of fences in need of repair." Inadequate maintenance of fences is the major reason animals are able to wander out of a field and cause a traffic accident on a highway. If a farmer or rancher fails to mend his fences after being warned, he could face criminal charges, Lieutenant Thompson said. But "We really don't want to file complaints against anyone. All we want is cooperation."

Lieutenant Thompson said most of the farmers in the Porterville area have been extremely cooperative because they realize that fences in good repair represent relatively cheap insurance on their investment in the animals as well as protection against damage suits.

He also requested public cooperation in promptly reporting the location of any stray animal on the road. "The CHP will respond as quickly as possible," he said.

REGISTRATION OF OFF-HIGHWAY VEHICLES CHANGED

SACRAMENTO — Most off-highway vehicles previously exempt from registration requirements now must display the special identification sticker required for this type vehicle.

Previously, snowmobiles, dirt motorcycles and other off-highway vehicles operated only on private property did not need the identification device.

Only a few types of off-highway vehicles are now exempt from the special registration provisions, including farm implements, special construction equipment, governmental vehicles, and four-wheeled race cars operated exclusively in sanctioned races on closed courses.

PARKS HAVE RECORD NUMBER OF VISITORS

THREE RIVERS — Travel to Sequoia and Kings Canyon National parks reached a new high in 1975 with 1,992,680 visits recorded, a 27% increase over 1974, and 54,380 more visits than in 1968, the previous record travel year.

Backcountry count for Sequoia National park was 110,420, an increase of 6,567 over 1974, while Kings Canyon backcountry overnight stays totaled 93,142, a decrease of 22,802.

"With the Wilderness Permit system in effect in both parks," Superintendent Stanley T. Albright said, "more accurate count of the use of the backcountry is possible."

This permit system was begun in 1972 with limitation on the use of the Rae Lakes Trail Loop. In 1973, all of the backcountry of Kings Canyon National park was put under use control.

The program was expanded in 1975 to include Sequoia National park so that both parks could be managed as one system of controlled use. Park Rangers report visible improvements have been noted in areas where overuse had caused serious deterioration.

In the frontcountry, or the developed areas of the parks, tent campers and recreation vehicle users were represented almost equally in the 14 established campgrounds. Total overnight stays was 143,262, an increase of 11% over 1974. The concession-operated facilities had a total of 104,221 overnight visits in 1975, a 6% decrease in use compared with 1974.

California cotton acreage is expected to increase by 22 percent in 1976 - or 200,000 acres more than in 1975.
